Power
Learn
Project

AFRONUBI HOUSE ENTERTAINMENT (AHE)

Producing Nubian’s Next Sound and Story.

Founder & CEO: Makram Adam | PLP Pitch Deck | 2026

The problem

- Emerging artists can struggle to access affordable recording, visuals, promotion and distribution support.
- Nubian and refugee-community stories need more pathways into professionally produced, widely shared media.
- Young creatives may lack equipment, industry networks and practical routes to turn talent into sustainable work.

Opportunity: build a locally rooted creative platform that helps talent produce, publish and grow.

Our solution

- AfroNubi Records — artist development, music releases, promotion and distribution partnerships.
- AfroNubi Film — short films, documentaries, music videos, interviews and drama.
- A digital-first approach: produce locally, publish online, build audiences and reinvest in new work.

Designed to start lean in Kakuma and scale through partnerships.

What AHE delivers

AFRONUBI RECORDS

Artist development and release planning

Music releases, artwork and music videos

Online promotion and audience building

Digital distribution partnerships

AFRONUBI FILM

Short films, drama and documentaries

Music videos

Authentic Nubian stories and interviews

Online publishing and partner production

Who we serve

1. Local creatives in Kakuma

Emerging musicians, actors, filmmakers and young storytellers.

2. Nubian communities

Audiences seeking authentic Nubian identity, culture and stories.

3. Wider African & global audiences

Viewers, listeners, diaspora communities, brands and creative partners.

Market opportunity

Digital distribution can help a Kakuma-based creative company reach audiences beyond its local market.

23.4 MILLION

internet users in Kenya at end of 2025

18.4 MILLION

social media user identities in Kenya in October 2025

Competitors & alternatives

AHE operates across artist development, production and storytelling. Alternatives include:

Digital platforms	YouTube, streaming and social platforms distribute content, but creators must build and manage the content themselves.
Music distributors	Digital distributors help deliver music to platforms; AHE adds local artist development, visuals and promotion.
Independent studios	Production teams create individual projects; AHE connects music and film under one emerging brand.
Community media	Local channels can reach communities; AHE aims to package stories for local and global audiences.

Why AfroNubi is different

- Nubian-led storytelling rooted in lived experience and community identity.
- Music and film under one brand, enabling cross-promotion between artists and stories.
- Kakuma-based starting point with ambitions to reach regional, diaspora and global audiences.
- Lean, digital-first production model designed to grow through partnerships and reinvestment.

Positioning: authentic stories, emerging talent, wider reach.

Traction & 12-month roadmap

Current stage: early development. The milestones above are plans, not completed traction.

How AHE can earn revenue

Potential revenue streams

- Music streaming and distribution income
- Paid video/film production and editing
- Sponsored content and brand partnerships
- YouTube and digital monetization (when eligible)
- Film licensing, screenings and commissioned projects

Cost priorities

- Equipment and software
- Production, transport and connectivity
- Marketing, distribution and project costs

Early-stage note: revenue and profit margins are not yet validated; track costs and income per project.

Go-to-market plan

1. Publish music, interviews, trailers and short-form clips on YouTube and social media.
2. Use artist and community networks in Kakuma to find talent, collaborators and first audiences.
3. Build an owned website and consistent brand presence; direct viewers to releases and contact channels.
4. Partner with community organizations, events, cultural networks, distributors and media pages.
5. Review monthly: reach, watch time, engagement, inquiries, releases and project costs.

Social Impact

1. Decent Work and Economic Growth

Create pathways for young creatives to build skills and pursue income-generating work.

2. Reduced Inequalities

Increase visibility for Nubian voices and underrepresented communities.

3. Quality Education

Support practical learning through creative production, collaboration and digital skills.

4. Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions

Share stories that encourage identity, dialogue, dignity and understanding.

Impact measures: creatives engaged, projects published, skills gained, audience reach and paid opportunities created.

Our ask: Ksh. 200,000

•AHE is seeking Ksh. 200,000 in startup support to establish basic production capacity and launch its first music and film projects.

- Proposed use of funds

Laptop for editing, administration and digital production — Ksh. 70,000

Camera and essential filming accessories — Ksh. 60,000

Audio equipment and basic recording accessories — Ksh. 35,000

Storage, software/connectivity and project setup — Ksh. 15,000

Initial content production, transport and promotion — Ksh. 20,000

TOTAL: Ksh. 200,000

Team Members

MAKRAM ADAM

Founder & CEO

GROWING TEAM

Plan collaborators in music and film production, marketing and administration as resources allow.

Thank you!

AfroNubi House Entertainment (AHE)

Producing Nubian’s Next Sound and Story.

Email: makramadam9@gmail.com

Phone Number: +254118043280

TikTok: tiktok.com/@afronubi_media

Based in Kakuma, Kenya | From Kakuma to the world